

Over a Decade of Participatory Budgeting Advocacy in Portland.

Despite years of talk and community advocacy, Portland remains the only major West Coast city - from LA to Vancouver BC - yet to launch municipal participatory budgeting program.

2011

Occupy Portland proposes PB as part of a People's Budget. Mayor Sam Adams' administration explores using PB to allocate some transportation funding but takes no action.

Wikimedia Commons

2016

Mayoral Candidate Ted Wheeler pledges- if elected- to bring "New York-style participatory budgeting" to Portland.

Wikimedia Commons

2017

City Council adopts a FY 17-18 Budget amendment with $500k in Cannabis Tax revenue for PB. After controversy over related funding for the Portland Police Bureau the Council reverses this decision. A later proposal by Comm. Eudaly for PB through neighborhood coalitions is stymied.

The Daily Chronic

2018

Over 100 residents gather in East Portland for a Community Forum to explore PB & make recommendations to local governments for implementing PB in the region. Advocates again press the City Council to launch PB in Portland.

PB Oregon

2020

The City Council adopts a FY20-21 budget with $1 million in ongoing funding for PB to be implemented by & for unhoused Portlanders. Hampered by COVID 19, the program had not launched by September 2021 and the Council eventually retracted funding.

Wikimedia Commons

2021

State Legislators Kayse Jama, Chris Gorsek, & Ricki Ruiz secure $690K in federal COVID recovery funding for Youth Voice Youth Vote PB, Oregon's first PB process run by five nonprofits & youth leaders. Hundreds of young people in East Portland & Multnomah County develop COVID recovery projects for a ballot and Spring 2023 vote.

PB Oregon

2022

After several unsuccessful efforts to launch PB in Portland, the Charter Commission drafts a charter amendment modeled after one adopted by 67% of Boston voters in 2021. The amendment requires the City to annually implement a PB process "open to all residents."

2023

The Portland City Council receives the proposed PB Charter Amendment from the Charter Commission but does not forward it on to voters, effectively rejecting charter-mandated PB that redistributes some budgeting power directly to residents.

2025

Portlanders launch the Your 2 Cents Portland campaign, an initiative petition to win voter-approved, charter-mandated PB for Portland via a November 2026 ballot measure.

In July 2026 petitioners submit almost 79,000 signatures to qualify for the November 2026 ballot.

